THE YOUNGBERRY

The berries are always large and often enormous in size, yet they are firm enough to be good keepers and shippers. They are a deep wine color, changing to jet black as they age, and the exquisite flavor suggests a combination of raspberry, blackberry and dewberry, with a piquancy which gives just the right zest to their superior sweetness.

For eating fresh, or for jams and jellies, we do not believe they have a superior.

The vines are vigorous and should be trained on trellises. The large size of the berries and their accessibility makes picking cost much less than ordinary berries. Fruit ripens very early, being one of the first on the market. You will make no mistake in planting this berry.

BLACK RASPBERRY

Cumberland. Perhaps the best black raspberry grown; we find it best in our section, nice large berry, firm and more productive than any other we have tried. We recommend this as a money maker.

Black raspberries are scarce in most sections of California, little of the fruit being seen in the Los Angeles market last season—great demand for them. Our plants are fine.

BLACKBERRIES

Crandall's Early Blackberries. We believe this to be the best all around blackberry grown, hardy and disease resistant. No trellising necessary.

Himalaya Blackberry. A good late variety bearing through August, September and October. Long canes—must be trellised.

Mammoth Blackberry. (Not the Cory). Fine large berry, pretty well known. A little more subject to disease than others.

STRAWBERRIES

We are prepared to give you the best in strawberry plants, large or small orders, and your choice of local or eastern plants.

For commercial planting, we recommend those varieties which have been proven to be best for our section (west coast) and seem to be the leading varieties in all great strawberry growing sections.

The Blakemore, a new berry, is one we believe destined to replace other leading varieties when people have tried it out.

The Missionary and the Improved Klondike are without dispute planted more extensively than other kinds.

We recommend these and place them at the top of the list.

RED RASPBERRIES

St. Regis. A good variety for the home garden, very prolific, and one that if watered will bear all summer.

Cuthbert. A larger size berry than the St. Regis, not as sure to bear every season, but with other qualities that make it a splendid berry.

DEWBERRY

Gardena Dewberry. The earliest berry we grow. Perhaps the most prolific of all bush berries. Looks like, and often sells for a blackberry. Can be grown on trellis or clumped by pruning back.

THORNLESS YOUNGBERRY

We offer the Acme Berry Garden's Thornless as it has proved a better bearer than our own, and we can supply them at the same price as sold by the Acme people.

They are fine. Plant some this season so as to raise your plants.
